Marketplace expertise?

Let's talk

At ADJUTANT, we're always interested in meeting people who know marketplaces and want to make a difference. We help fashion and lifestyle brands grow on Europe's leading online marketplaces. And we know that great results start with the right people.

Your background could be in Finance, Marketing, Performance, Operations or Business Development. What matters is that you understand marketplace dynamics and bring expertise that moves us forward.

- You combine commercial thinking with a structured, hands-on approach.
- You take ownership, follow through and care about getting the details right.
- You're curious about data, technology and better ways of working.
- You spot opportunities, solve problems and turn ideas into action.
- You thrive in a fast-moving environment where priorities evolve and your contribution matters.
- You bring ambition, sound judgement and a willingness to share what you know.

In return, we offer talented colleagues, strong partnerships and room to shape your role.

We're based in Silkeborg, Denmark, where close collaboration is part of our everyday work. We'd love to hear from you.
